When will rates fall?

There are no guarantees, but many of the macroeconomic experts we closely follow predict that rates may fall soon.

So, buying in a higher-rate environment like today can be an advantage because there is far less competition, and you will likely be able to refi into a lower rate afterwards.

We also have numerous tools to help you lower your rate and payment if you buy in a higher-interest environment.

For information in regard to any of this, we encourage you to reach out to one of our experts at JVM Lending.
