

a note from the seller..

When we first saw this home, we fell in love with the backyard, the open layout, and how close everything was. What we didn't realize yet was just how much life this house would hold.

We've spent years here building something special. The kitchen became the heart of our home, big enough to cook a Thanksgiving feast while guests spilled into the living room watching football, kids ran through the backyard, and laughter filled every corner. The treehouse we built out back became a source of endless joy, with little ones flying down the slide and zip line until well after dark. On quieter evenings, we'd gather around the fire pit under the trees, strung with lights, and just breathe.

We biked to school, jogged to the gym, and spent countless family evenings at Forest Oaks Park, fishing, walking the trails, and playing on what we're convinced is one of the best playgrounds in the Houston area. Old Town Spring became our go-to for a night out, and the cul-de-sac became something we didn't expect when we moved in: a real community.

This home has been the perfect place to grow a family. We're only leaving because life is pulling us toward a new chapter, but we leave knowing this house is ready to do for your family exactly what it did for ours.
