

a note from the seller..

When we first walked into this house, it was the space that stopped us in our tracks. The large rooms, open layout, and natural light made it feel comfortable and welcoming right away; like a place meant for both everyday living and meaningful moments.

Some of our favorite times here have been spent in the private backyard, watching our dog run around and enjoying the quiet that this neighborhood offers. One of the things we've always loved most about this area is how peaceful and low-traffic it is, while still being so incredibly convenient. We're close to shopping, dining, and everything we need, with quick access to the Katy Freeway – yet we never hear it. It truly feels tucked away while still connected to everything Houston has to offer.

This home also holds one of our most special memories: the proposal happened right here. It's a place that has been filled with love, excitement, and new beginnings for us as newlyweds, and we hope it becomes just as meaningful for the next owners.

While we haven't owned the home long, we've taken care to make thoughtful improvements, including removing diseased trees, repairing the fence, and adding a security system, all while appreciating the updates that were completed before we purchased the home.

We're only moving because of a new chapter calling us out of state for work, but this home and neighborhood will always hold a special place in our hearts. We hope the next owners feel the same sense of comfort, privacy, and joy that we've experienced here.
