

Things We Enjoy!

One of the nicknames for Cross Creek Ranch is the “naturehood” and we have found that to be an accurate description. So much wildlife as well as tons of walking trails, lakes for fishing and an abundance of native plants and landscapes. We actually have a group of photographers in the neighborhood that have published a photo book of the wildlife and birds in the neighborhood!

The other wonderful thing about this neighborhood is a number of great restaurants right here at the front and in the neighborhood. They’ve even added the Local Spot (the owners of Local Table live in CCR and have opened this neighborhood café and bar in the Welcome Center). Also, Cross Creek is part of City of Fulshear so Fulshear police department and city government are also located in CCR.

We absolutely love our yard. Our backyard is rather private with only one neighbor. There’s a 40 foot break between us and our back neighbor and the other side of our house is next to the walking trails. It almost feels like we live on an island to ourselves. The pool has been used for so many birthday parties, holiday parties, and we have loved using it year-round. The screened porch and gazebo have been wonderful places for conversation, cooking out and sipping a glass of wine or two.

As for our house, we love that it’s one story and the layout has been wonderful for entertaining. The long hallway that runs nearly the length of our house has really become another room for us. We have lined up long tables down the center to play Christmas games, host a Murder mystery game, and other fun events! During the winter, we love having a gas-long fireplace to make the house cozy and warm.

We also love that there’s no carpet in the house. We can personalize each room with a rug (or no rug). We also like how so many of the windows in the main rooms have no panes to obstruct your view.
