The Heights

The Heights offers a vibrant mix of amenities, including locally owned shops, antique stores, unique dining destinations, and a walkable district with a historic feel, all centered around the area's largest neighborhood, Houston Heights. Some of the area amenities include places where Retro-seekers can shop at antique and record shops along 19th Street, its also home to the classic Heights Theater and the monthly First Saturday Arts Market. The Heights also hosts various community events throughout the year, such as farmers markets, festivals, and holiday celebrations and for strolls and exercise it has The Heights hike-and-bike trail that follows a leafy path all the way to Downtown Houston.

Parks & Green Space

Donovan Park is a beloved Houston Heights playground featuring a whimsical wooden castle, shaded areas, and a fully gated design perfect for young children. It offers a safe, imaginative space for families to relax and play along scenic Heights Boulevard.

Stude Park is a spacious green park along White Oak Bayou offering trails, open fields, a playground, and scenic views in the Houston Heights area. It’s a popular spot for walking, biking, picnicking, and enjoying the bayou’s natural setting.

Eleanor Tinsley Park with its sloping hills and lush trees, this park is a great place to relax. Picnic tables are sunken into some of the hills to make for a unique setting. Some are also covered, which is handy in case of a sudden downpour. The layout of this park makes for some interesting strolls. It's set along Buffalo Bayou and is adjacent to the Bayou's scenic ArtPark (featuring a host of sculptures and other art pieces).

Memorial Park - Includes a popular three-mile running course, Texas’ top-rated municipal 18-hole golf course ,Tennis Courts, Softball fields, Track, Cycling, Picnic space, playground, baseball court, soccer field and more.

Houston Arboretum & Nature Center - The Arboretum’s 155 acres are home to a number of managed native gardens, ponds teeming with wildlife, and beautiful spaces to relax and take in nature.
